Answer the questions from 24 to 26 after reading the following passage

It is essential to rid ourselves of the false impressions of time, which our human limitations seem to impose upon us. Above all, we must rid ourselves of the belief that the future is in some way less determined than the past, if the boarderline between past and future is illusory, then so must be the distinction between the two regions of time which it is supposed to separate. The only reason we believe the future to be still undecided while the past is immutable is that we can remember the one and not the other. To avoid these prejudices we must picture the history of the universe not as a three dimensional stage on which things change but as a static four-dimensional space time structure of which we are a part. We believe that events are not real until they “Happen”, whereas in reality past, present, and future they are all frozen in the four dimensions of space time. Unfortunately, even if all this is accepted, we have to continue using the language of a “moving’ time, for we have no other option but to interpret this language always as a description of the unchanging space time structure of the universe.

Contemplating the history of the universe in this way, it is attractive to believe that the periods of expansion and contraction could be related to each other by symmetry. Both points of view merit serious consideration and that we cannot say with any certainty that the contracting universe will or will not, differ fundamentally from the expanding phase that we observe today.

24. According to the author of the passage,
Choose the right statement
- (1) the time value called ‘now’ is most essential to the understanding of the universe
  - (2) the impression of a moving time is not a false imposition of human limitation
  - (3) there is ‘nothing’ with respect to which time could move
  - (4) the future is better determined than the past

25. Which of the following best exemplifies the author's attitude to time?
- (1) The impression of a moving time is true.
  - (2) 'Now' is a very objective and highly rational phenomenon.
  - (3) The future is more confusing and it is less determined than the past.
  - (4) The impression of 'moving' time is false.

26. Which one of the following words from the passage means 'unchanging over time'?
- |               |              |
|---------------|--------------|
| (1) illusory  | (2) symmetry |
| (3) immutable | (4) moving   |

Answer the questions from 27 to 30 after reading the following passage.

What distinguishes humans from animals? For some it is language, for others it is the altruistic willingness to help other members of the species. However, this kind of altruism seems to exist in the animal world as well.

Researchers working with Christophe Boesch at the Max Planck Institute for Evolutionary Anthropology in Leipzig observed that West African chimpanzees adopt orphaned young, even though they are not related to them. Several animals lavished care on a juvenile for several years. Surprisingly, half of these adoptive parents were male.

This behaviour is thought to be encouraged by the pressure of leopards, with whom the West African chimpanzees share their habitat. The constant threat from the big cats seems to have encouraged cohesion and solidarity within the group. Accordingly, the scientists observed more chimpanzee adoptions in West Africa's Tai National Park than in East Africa. Wild chimpanzees appear to be more prepared to help than those living in captivity. In zoos, chimpanzees cooperate with other members of the group to only a very limited extent. 'Our observations show that altruism in wild chimpanzees is much more widespread than studies of chimpanzees would suggest,' concludes Christopher Boesch.

27. Which discovery about the adoptive streak in animals, what surprises the author is that
- (1) Even chimpanzees adopt orphan juveniles of big cats
  - (2) Even male chimpanzees adopt juveniles of other species
  - (3) Even big cats adopt orphan juveniles of chimpanzees
  - (4) Even female chimpanzees adopt juveniles of other species

28. About the recently discovered altruistic zeal in chimpanzees, all except the following statement can be inferred from the passage.
- (1) Chimpanzees living in the wild are more altruistic than these in cages
  - (2) Chimpanzees adopt orphans that are even unrelated to them
  - (3) Chimpanzees found in West Asian forests are more altruistic than those found elsewhere
  - (4) Chimpanzees found in the Tai National Park in West Africa are observed to be more altruistic than those found in East Africa
29. What is the meaning of the word 'altruism'?
- (1) very violent behaviour of wild animals.
  - (2) not showing any willingness to help other animals.
  - (3) behaviour of an animal that benefits another at its own expense.
  - (4) the presence of artificial intelligence in animals.
30. In the expression 'this behaviour is thought to be encouraged', the word 'this' refers to which of the following?
- (1) That chimpanzees are not similar to humans.
  - (2) That chimpanzees exhibit a sense of altruism that exists in humans.
  - (3) That chimpanzees do not behave as strictly according to their gender as human do.
  - (4) That sexual limitations do not stop a male chimpanzees from being altruistic and adoptive in behaviour.

Read the following passage and answer the questions from 31 to 33 by choosing the correct option:

Teaching, more even than most other professions, has been transformed during the last hundred years from a small, highly skilled profession concerned with a minority of the population, to a large and important branch of the public service. The profession has a great and honorable tradition, extending from the dawn of history until recent times, but any teacher in the modern world who allows himself to be inspired by the ideals of his predecessors is likely to be made sharply aware that it is not his function to teach what he thinks, but to instill such beliefs and prejudices as are thought useful by his employers.

31. According to the above passage, in modern times, a successful teacher is primarily supposed to _____
- (1) Transform ancient values and family relations
  - (2) Impart traditional knowledge and social skills of westerners
  - (3) Instill values as preferred by the authority
  - (4) Toe the lines he cherishes the most

32. The modern teacher is not able to follow the ideals of his predecessors because _____
- (1) of tremendous advancements in professional skills
  - (2) of social and political constraints
  - (3) the students' indifferent attitude
  - (4) the modern teacher has more interest in politics than in academic activity
33. In this passage, the author seems to _____
- (1) approve the recent developments in the mode of teaching
  - (2) be a staunch believer in modernism
  - (3) consider education as a teacher's personal affair
  - (4) be against the current trend in the teaching profession

Read the following passage and answer questions 73-77 based on it.

Every year about two million people visit Mount Rushmore, where the faces of four U-S Presidents were carved in granite by sculptor Gutzon Borglum and his son, the late Lincoln Borglum. The creation of Mount Rushmore monument took 14 years - from 1927 to 1941 - and nearly a million dollars. There were times when money was difficult to come by and many people were jobless. To move the more than 400,000 tons of rock, Borglum hired laid-off workers from the closed down mines in the Black Hills area. He taught these men to dynamite, drill, carve and finish the granite as they were hanging in mid-air in his specially derived chairs, which had many safety features. Borglum was proud of the fact that no workers were killed or severely injured during the years of blasting and carving.

During the carving, many changes in the original design had to be made to keep the carved heads free of large fissures that were uncovered. However, not all the cracks could be avoided, so Borglum concocted a mixture of granite dust, white lead, and kerosene oil to fill them.

Every winter, water from melting snows gets into the fissures and expands as it freezes, making the fissures bigger. Consequently, every autumn maintenance work is done to refill the cracks. The repairs swing out in space over a 500-foot drop and fix the monument with the same mixture that Borglum used to preserve. This is a national monument for future generations.

73. The main theme of the passage is

- (1) The creation of the Mount Rushmore monument
  - (2) Borglum's troubles
  - (3) The people who visit the monument
  - (4) The architect of the monument

Read the poem given below and answer questions 78 to 82.

In Madurai
city of temples and poets,
who sang of cities and temples,
every summer
a river dries to a trickle
in the sand,
faring the sand ribs,
straw and womens hair
clogging the water gates
at the rusty bars
under the bridges with patches
of repair all over them
the wet stones glistening like sleepy
crocodiles, the dry ones
shaven water buffaloes lounging in the sun
The poets only sang of the floods
He was there for a day
When they had the floods
People everywhere talked of the inches rising
of the precise number of cobbled steps
run over by the water rising
on the bathing places
and the way it carried off three village houses,
one pregnant woman
and a couple of cows
named Gopi and Brinda as usual.

78. Which of the following words aptly sums up the writer's description of the river in summer?
